RESPONSE DEADLINE:

If you have any objection to these appointments, please let Chris know by 5:00pm no later than Friday April 11, 2008.

CURRENT BOARD COMPOSITION:

According to City ordinance, the Historic Landmark Commission “shall consist of not less than nine or more than fifteen voting members.” In part, the Salt Lake City Code states that each voting member “shall be a resident of the City interested in preservation and knowledgeable about the heritage of the City.” City code also requires members be selected to provide representation from the following groups of experts and interested parties: (a) a licensed architect representing the American Institute of Architects; (b) a member representing the Utah Historical Society; (c) a member representing the Utah Heritage Foundation; (d) six citizens at large; and (e) a member representing each historic district in the City.

Current members of the Historic Landmark Commission include Pete R. Ashdown, Exchange Place Representative, District 3; Paula Carl, District 5; David Fitzsimmons, District 5; Creed Haymond, University District, District 4; Warren Lloyd, American Institute of Architects, District 6; and Jessica Norie, Utah Heritage Foundation.

HLC STRUCTURE:

The mission of the Historic Landmark Commission is to preserve buildings of historic and architectural significance, encourage proper development in areas adjacent to historic districts, safeguard the City’s heritage by protecting landmarks, protect and enhance the attraction of the City’s historic landmarks for tourists and visitors, and increase public awareness of historic preservation.
